

Device analysis tells us source people are using while tweeting. It can be using an iPhone, Android device or some applications like using instagram, or even web client. Now, we use this data provided by twitter to see how people are using such devices. We see how top 5 devices used are used in different cities or states. We also see how use of device changes with time. We can also see what sentiment people convey using that device.